

CASE SCENARIO

A 50 year old female, a homemaker presented with history of cough with expectoration since 5 years. She described a cupful of sputum with intermittent hemoptysis. The symptoms were worse when she used to lie in right lateral position. She didn't have dyspnoea/ chest pain/palpitations.

She had history of repeated episodes of pneumonia in childhood.

On examination, mild pallor+, grade 3 clubbing+.

RESPIRATORY SYSTEM:

Coarse, leathery crepitations heard in left mammary, infraaxillary and infrascapular areas.

OTHER SYSTEMS : Unremarkable.