I think that life in college is far more interesting and exciting than it used to be at school. First of all college students are treated as adults, capable of taking independent, decisions about their lives and careers. We are also allowed the freedom to express our personal views on matters that concerns. The teachers are more open and accessible and they interact with the students more freely than our teachers, did at school. Hence college life is fun because it includes picnics and longer trips with classmates and teachers.
